

Career opportunities in aviation are at an unprecedented level and the need for flight training has exploded around the world. Northern Colorado and Southern Wyoming have two great schools that enjoy a long history of producing safe and competent pilots: The Flying School through their Part 61 programs and Wings of Wyoming through their Part 141 programs. Offering these alternative pathways to a career in aviation is key to helping ensure that our nations pilot pipeline is filled with proficient knowledgeable pilots.

That's why we are so excited to announce that The Flying School and Wings of Wyoming are joining forces! Under The Flying School moniker, we will now be offering both Part 61 and Part 141 programs to students in Colorado and Wyoming. Joining together our two great programs will enable us to offer training to even more aspiring aviators. Our fleet of well-maintained aircraft includes light sports, Cessna's, and a Baron twin. We can get our students from their first flight to their CFI check ride in a fast and reliable environment.

And just as important as our planes are our instructors. Coming from a diverse background but sharing in their commitment to education, our instructors truly care for the experience and the protection of our students. So, join us on our new adventure together, call The Flying School to start realizing your aviation dreams today.
